

About one out of every five human-caused wildfires are started by someone burning debris and trash.

Before you light a debris fire, consider these helpful tips:

- Make sure you have a valid permit. Check with the local fire department for restrictions.
- Local fire officials can recommend a safe way for burning debris. The fire should be placed in a cleared area, away from overhead branches and wires.
- Consider alternatives to burning. Some types of debris, such as leaves, grass, and stubble, may be of more value if they are not burned. Household trash should be hauled away to a recycling station.

More wildfire prevention information can be found by calling:

Call 1-800-323-BURN

About one out of every five human-caused wildfires are started by someone burning debris and trash.

Before you light a debris fire, consider these helpful tips:

- Make sure you have a valid permit. Check with the local fire department for restrictions.
- Local fire officials can recommend a safe way for burning debris. The fire should be placed in a cleared area, away from overhead branches and wires.
- Consider alternatives to burning. Some types of debris, such as leaves, grass, and stubble, may be of more value if they are not burned. Household trash should be hauled away to a recycling station.

More wildfire prevention information can be found by calling:

Call 1-800-323-BURN

About one out of every five human-caused wildfires are started by someone burning debris and trash.

Before you light a debris fire, consider these helpful tips:

- Make sure you have a valid permit. Check with the local fire department for restrictions.
- Local fire officials can recommend a safe way for burning debris. The fire should be placed in a cleared area, away from overhead branches and wires.
- Consider alternatives to burning. Some types of debris, such as leaves, grass, and stubble, may be of more value if they are not burned. Household trash should be hauled away to a recycling station.

More wildfire prevention information can be found by calling:

Call 1-800-323-BURN